We've seen a sharp rise in domestic abuse during lockdown. Thankfully, some great organisations offer support when people no longer feel safe in their homes.

To talk about this, we'll be joined by Sarah Benson, CEO of Women's Aid, which offers practical support to women and children facing domestic abuse, and campaigns for lasting societal change.

Mary-Louise Lynch is the founder of SiSi, a collective of female survivors of intimate abuse who support each other out of isolation to be influencers of reform.

Elisabeth Power and Evelyn Glynn train counsellors to work with domestic violence and coercive control. They have decades of experience in this field, including with Domestic Violence Response, a Galway-based organisation responding to domestic abuse.

Please join us to talk about surviving abuse, client presentations, perpetrator tactics, the social/political context, available support and further professional development.

The Together Series is open to all students, staff and alumni of Cork
